Young Hospital Professional of the Year Award 2017

Hospital professionals are vital elements of medicines and care management within the secondary care setting and those in their infancy years of the profession can hint at leadership excellence that inspires and develops the potential of others.

The Young Hospital Professional of the Year Award recognises rising talent and potential amongst those at the beginning of their careers – those individuals who are already demonstrating that they can make a difference to their profession and the patients they serve.

This Award focuses specially on the talent we will all rely on to deliver services for the next 20 years and more: the young professionals, currently delivering and planning services at the sharp end - but whose skills will be vitally important over the coming years.

This award is open to professionals up to age 30 who are working within any hospital department where their involvement has been greater than six months.

JUDGES WILL BE LOOKING FOR:

- Judges will want to see effective communication skills with both staff and customers
- Demonstration of a commitment to mentoring or other leadership activities
- Operation within their own department liaising with key staff members and management and developing key communication skills
- A dedication and commitment to furthering the profession into the future
